

Stellar Trading Systems launches global hosting service

LONDON, CHICAGO, 1 JUNE, 2011 - Stellar Trading Systems (Stellar), a leading provider of cutting-edge futures, options, equities and treasuries trading capabilities, is pleased to announce the launch of Stellar Hosting Services for low latency market access and proximity hosting of its high performance trading systems.

With hubs in London, Chicago, New Jersey and Frankfurt, Stellar is able to provide customers worldwide with a fully managed trading infrastructure built for speed and reliability. Stellar Hosting Services offers ASP (Application Service Provider) and hosting solutions with a shared or dedicated Stellar environment. Through Stellar Hosting Services, FCMs and trading firms can quickly and easily deploy Stellar's unrivalled trading applications, including the Stellar spreadMachine, Stellar API, and Quantum Server.

Stellar Hosting Services minimises latency and improves execution by exploiting Stellar's already ultrafast server-based technology and stable, fully redundant connections to the world's major derivatives and equities exchanges. Stellar technicians manage all aspects of the trading infrastructure from network administration and monitoring, to hardware procurement and configuration, to connectivity and end user support.

"Stellar Hosting Services allows our customers to implement a Stellar trading infrastructure with a reduced time to market, lower costs, and reduced operational risk on a fully outsourced basis. FCMs and trading firms can now benefit from Stellar's unrivalled solutions while focusing on their core business," said Steve Thomas, Managing Director of Stellar Trading Systems.
